On the following pages you will find listed the products of our Gardens. It is our aim to produce the best possible in flowers, plants, bulbs, roots, and decoratives; not only healthy and well grown, but also the best varieties. Of some of our flowers there are many hundreds of varieties. Out of this maze we have chosen those we consider the better ones in an endeavor to keep our lists narrowed to a serviceable yet representative lot of varieties. It is our aim also, to seek continually new varieties and to provide them as soon as their worth has been determined.

We might mention here several of the new things we have secured during the last two or three years. In Delphiniums, the new "Pacific" All-Double strain was a great advance in that stately flower. Aquilegia listed is the finest grown of the long spurred strains. In Daisies there has been a definite achievement--The All-Double and the Chiffon. In Irises, the recent great development has brought that flower to the fore. Our lists comprise the outstanding varieties in that development--tall bearded, dwarf, fall blooming, and Japanese. New Gladiolus and Roses, are being registered each year with the general trend toward betterment. Thus throughout the list the better and newer varieties are presented.

Descriptions in a catalog of this character are necessarily brief, but we invite you to visit our gardens to see the flowers, which is a very good way to select varieties for your own garden. The panorama of flowers commences with Daffedils, the earliest ones often peering through the snows of late April. Then Tulips and Irises, and in June, a great profusion of blooms, including Peonies, Day Lilies, Oriental Poppies, Delphiniums, Lilies, Roses, Painted Daisies, and Columbine. During July, Lilies, Phlox, Japanese Iris, and Day Lilies hold sway till Gladiolus appear, which then overshadow all other flowers until the coming of severe frosts. The scene then centers on Chrysanthemums which endure the frost and snows of late October and early November. Of course, we have mentioned only the high-lights of this panorama, a more detailed schedule of which is given on the following pages.

We thank you for your purchases here and trust that our efforts and increasing experience may merit your continued good will.

HEMEROCALLIS OR DAY LILY

The Day Lily's adaptability to varying conditions of soil and moisture; of sunshine, and shade; of heat and cold, make this a very desirable perennial. Each variety blooms over a period of from four to six weeks and the blooming period of different varieties continues from May until September with some varieties repeating and continuing to bloom until frost.

There are low growing rock-garden varieties with grass-like foliage while others range up to five feet, with an average of 36 to 40 inches. The blooms vary in color from the lightest yellow to the deepest orange, some with pink, tawny, or red shadings.

The Day Lily never fails to bloom; it is free from disease and insects; it endures the cold winters of the North and the heat of the summers in the South. It may be transplanted any time of the year. All in all the Hemerocallis or Day Lily may be said to be the "Perfect Perennial."

PROTECTION OF PERENNIALS IN WINTER

All perennials should be mulched the year planted. The mulching of oriental poppies, peonies, and late planted irises in particular is your best insurance against loss.

Clean wheat or rye straw is a very good mulch. This gives ventilation as well as protection. It need not be extra heavy for best results. A mulch of three to four inches is sufficient.

TREATMENT OF GLADIOLUS BULBS

MERCURIC CHLORIDE

(Corosive Sublimate or Bichloride of Mercury)

The indispensable and universally accepted treatment of Gladiolus for disease cure and prevention is the Mercuric Chloride Treatment. Soak the bulbs over night, from eight to twelve hours, in a solution of one ounce of mercuric chloride to seven gallons of water. Dissolve the mercuric chloride with hot water and mix with enough to make seven gallons, which should be 70° F. to be the most effective. Use a non-metal container. Bulbs should not be treated until planting time, and may be planted wet or allowed first to dry. This solution is safe for the hands but is a poison and all necessary precautions should be taken in its use and for its disposal.

This treatment is recommended for all gladiolus bulbs each year regardless of where obtained. It is an important factor for continued success with your gladiolus.

NEW SPRAY AGAINST THRIPS

Recommend by

The United States Department of Agriculture

Formula: 1 lb. Tartar Emetic, 4 lbs. Brown Sugar,
25 gallons Water.

If Thrips are present in your growing Gladiolus, spray as needed for its control with Tartar Emetic. It is the most effective and reliable spray to date.

We are prepared to supply Mercuric Chloride and Tartar Emetic

File with 1942 catalogs.
Akron, Ohio, April 15, 1942

To Our Friends and Customers:

For the season of 1942 we have an increased supply of bulbs and plants, both perennials and annuals; including gladiolus, lily, daffodil bulbs; chrysanthemums; columbines; chiffon, all-double daisies; delphiniums; hemerocallis; bearded, Siberian, kaempferi, dwarf irises; peonies; phloxes; pyrethrum; roses. New varieties added throughout. Our 1941 catalogue is a good indication of our line.

Because of war conditions and considerations of economy we may not distribute catalogues this Spring as customary. However, we invite you to come as usual to The Libis Gardens for bulbs, flowers, plants and decoratives, which it is our aim and pleasure to supply with products of highest quality.

Sincerely yours,
